

Lakeland Recreation Trails Systems

Map Legend

-  Medicine Creek Tan Spur
-  Medicine Creek Tan Spur
-  Porcupine Tan Spur
-  Porcupine Tan Spur
-  Pipeline Yellow Trail
-  Pipeline Yellow Trail
-  Pipeline Yellow Trail
-  Upper Ridge Red Trail
-  Upper Ridge Red Trail
-  Emergency Access Green Tr
-  Emergency Access Green Tr
-  Old Log Road Orange Trail
-  Old Log Road Orange Trail
-  Lower Ridge Blue Trail
-  Lower Ridge Blue Trail
-  White Tail Spur (red/yellow)
-  White Tail Spur (red/yellow)
-  Hunting area.
-  Hunting area

Lakeland Recreation Associates

LAKELAND RECREATION TRAIL DESCRIPTIONS

---

MEDICINE CREEK SPUR (TAN): A “spur” is a short connector trail that runs between two larger trails or trailheads. Medicine Creek Spur is identified by tan trail markers. Enter this spur on the west side of Medicine Creek at the s-curve on Fox Farm Rd, across from University Place. (Look for the tan marker on the tree). This spur follows Medicine Creek, which is down the hill on the left, and then connects with the Pipeline Yellow Trail. NOTE: Tan trail markers indicate a connection with a road.

PORCUPINE SPUR (TAN): Also identified by tan markers, this trail begins on Fox Farm Rd just east of Clubhouse Parkway and to the east of Medicine Creek. (look for tan trail marker on the tree). Hikers wander south above Medicine Creek to Pipeline Yellow Trail.

PIPELINE YELLOW TRAIL: This trail is identified by yellow markers. The trailhead begins at the south end of Fox Farm Road where Lakeland Subdivision ends (park vehicles or bicycles at the turnaround). This rolling trail travels east, then curves north running parallel to Fox Farm Rd through scenic woodlands and behind neighborhood homes. There are several adjoining spurs and trails branching off this trail. First, just 1/2 mile down, is White-Tail Spur on the right, identified by red/yellow markers, which connects with the Upper Ridge Red Trail. Hikers continue on Pipeline Yellow Trail down the hill to find the entrance to the Lower Ridge Blue Trail, also on the right. Continue following yellow markers to cross an access driveway and immediately pass the trailhead for the Upper Ridge Red Trail (red markers) on the right. Follow the Pipeline Trail for another 3/10 mile to find Medicine Creek Spur (tan markers) on the left, and further down the hill to hike a foot bridge over Medicine Creek. Be prepared for an uphill climb for 1/10 mile to reach Porcupine Spur (tan markers). Both Medicine Creek and Porcupine Spurs take hikers to Fox Farm Rd, or continue on to the pumping station. Turn right, walking around the pumping station, to the end of the trail marked with two yellow markers. At this point a utility easement leads to Red Apple Rd. The entire length of this trail is 1.3 miles, or 2.6 miles out and back.

UPPER RIDGE RED TRAIL: The trailhead for this hilly, 1/2 mile trail is at the Pipeline Yellow Trail near the access road for Well #3, where red markers clearly show the entrance. Hiking east, the trail quickly turns south to wander along the upper ridge of the dune until it ends at the Emergency Access Trail. At about 1/4 mile, the trail intersects with the Lower Ridge Blue Trail (blue markers — right leads to the Pipeline Yellow Trail; left leads to the lower ridge). Continuing south, hikers ascend a steep hill, past the White-Tail Spur on the right, and continue to the end. Turn right to go toward Fox Farm Rd or left to follow the Emergency Access Trail to find the south end of the Lower Ridge Blue Trail or Old Log Orange Trail.

EMERGENCY ACCESS TRAIL: This hilly trail is runs south of County Line Rd and is designated as an emergency access route (green trail markers). Begin this hike at the end of Fox Farm Rd, using the Pipeline Yellow Trail until it splits, then continue east until it ends at County Line Road. There are three major trails that can be accessed off of this route, the Upper Ridge Red Trail, the Lower Ridge Blue Trail and the Old Log Orange Trail. (PERSONAL MOTORIZED VEHICLES ARE NOT PERMITTED on any trail).

OLD LOG ORANGE TRAIL: Identified by orange markers, this trail begins off the Lower Ridge Blue Trail. This is a unique trail that wanders through wetlands, crossing several bridges over marsh areas and Medicine Creek. Then the trail climbs an embankment and turns south where hikers see beautiful views of Medicine Creek on the right. The trail ends at Emergency Access Trail. Turn left for a short hike to County Line Rd, or right to proceed toward Fox Farm Rd, passing other trails along the way.

LOWER RIDGE BLUE TRAIL: Identified by blue markers, this trail begins off the Pipeline Yellow Trail and soon intersects with the Upper Ridge Red Trail. Continue following the blue markers down the embankment, then right along the lower ridge of the dune. Notice the beginning of the Old Log Orange Trail branching left, as hikers continue straight following blue markers through wooded lowlands. The trail ends at Emergency Access Trail. Turn left to reach the Old Log Orange Trail, or turn right to climb the hill to reach the Upper Ridge Red Trail.

WHITE-TAIL SPUR: This is a short trail identified by red/yellow markers that connects the Pipeline Yellow Trail with the Upper Ridge Red Trail.

HUNTING: POPULAR HUNTING AREAS ARE NOTED ON THE MAP. PLEASE BE EXTREMELY CAUTIOUS IN THESE AREAS DURING HUNTING SEASON. HIKERS, SKIERS, CYCLISTS AND HUNTERS ARE ENCOURAGED TO WEAR BRIGHT CLOTHING OR CAPS SO AS NOT TO BE MISTAKEN FOR WILDLIFE. FOR THE SAME REASON, IT IS STRONGLY RECOMMENDED THAT PETS WEAR BRIGHTLY COLORED VESTS AS WELL. HUNTERS ON THIS PROPERTY ARE RESIDENTS OF LAKELAND AND ARE VERY CAREFUL AND CAUTIOUS. WHILE WE HAVE NEVER HAD A HUNTING ACCIDENT, WE CERTAINLY DO NOT WANT THERE TO BE A FIRST.